UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

FRANK A.J. GONSALVES

No. C 3:09-04112

Plaintiff,

v.

INFOSYS TECHNOLOGIES, LTD.,

MEMORANDUM & ORDER

Re: Defendant's Motion to Compel Arbitration

Defendant,

Frank A.J. Gonsalves (“plaintiff” or “Gonsalves”) brought this action against defendant Infosys Technologies, Ltd. (“defendant” or “Infosys”), Gonsalves’ former employer, alleging age and religious discrimination under Title VII, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the California Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA), Cal. Gov’t Code section 12940 et seq., and Ohio law, breach of contract, and retaliation in violation of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, 15 U.S.C. section 7201 et seq. Now before the court is defendant’s motion to compel arbitration. Having considered both parties’ submissions and arguments, and for the reasons discussed below, the court enters into the following memorandum and order.

BACKGROUND¹

Gonsalves was previously employed by Infosys, an information services and consulting company founded and headquartered in India, as a high-ranking executive. Gonsalves was terminated from his position in December 2008.

1 I. Procedural History

2 On July 17, 2009, plaintiff filed a lawsuit against Infosys in the Superior Court for the 3 County of Alameda, California, alleging various state law claims of age and religious discrimination, 4 retaliation, and breach of contract. Docket No. 1 (Notice of Removal). Defendant removed the 5 lawsuit to federal court on the basis of diversity of citizenship. Id. Plaintiff then amended his 6 complaint to add a federal cause of action for discrimination and retaliation in violation of the 7 Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002. Docket No. 4 (First Am. Compl.). Upon motion by Infosys, this court
8 dismissed without prejudice plaintiff's state law FEHA and breach of contract claims under Rule 9 12(b)(6), but afforded plaintiff leave to amend his complaint. Docket No. 42 (Order on First Mot. to 10 Dismiss and Transfer).

11 Plaintiff then filed his second amended complaint alleging the following causes of action:

12 (1) age discrimination in violation of FEHA, Title VII, the Age Discrimination in 13 Employment Act (ADEA), and Ohio Revised Code section 4112, et seq.;

14 (2) religious discrimination in violation of FEHA, Title VII, the ADEA, and Ohio
15 state law;

16 (3) retaliation in violation of FEHA, Title VII, the ADEA and Ohio state law;

17 (4) failure to prevent discrimination in violation of FEHA;

18 (5) wrongful termination in violation of California public policy;

19 (6) breach of a stock options contract; and 20 (7) retaliation for reporting fraudulent securities practices in violation of the 21 Sarbanes-Oxley Act

22 Docket No. 44 (Second Am. Compl.).

23 In response, defendant renewed its motion to dismiss plaintiff's state law claims and to 24 transfer venue. On May 6, 2010, the court dismissed plaintiff's FEHA and wrongful termination 25 claims without prejudice. Docket No. 63 (Order on Second Mot. to Dismiss and Transfer). The 26 court additionally denied defendant's motion to dismiss plaintiff's sixth cause of action for breach of 27 contract and denied defendant's motion to transfer venue. Id. The day after the court issued its 28 order, defendant filed a motion to compel arbitration. See Docket No. 70 (Mot. to Compel Arbitration).

1 II. Arbitration Agreement

2 As part of plaintiff's employment terms, plaintiff and defendant entered into an agreement to 3 arbitrate all claims and disputes arising out of, relating to, or otherwise resulting from plaintiff's
4 employment with and termination from Infosys. See Docket No. 67 (D'Souza Dec.), Exh. A (At-5 Will Form Contract) at 5. Plaintiff's employment contract provides:

6 IN CONSIDERATION OF MY EMPLOYMENT WITH INFOSYS, ITS PROMISE
7 TO ARBITRATE ALL EMPLOYMENT-RELATED DISPUTES AND MY
8 RECEIPT OF THE COMPENSATION, PAY RAISES AND OTHER BENEFITS
9 PAID TO ME BY INFOSYS AT PRESENT AND IN THE FUTURE, I AGREE
10 THAT ANY AND ALL CONTROVERSIES, CLAIMS, OR DISPUTES WITH 11 ANYONE (INCLUDING INFOSYS AND ANY EMPLOYEE, OFFICER, 12 DIRECTOR, SHAREHOLDER OR BENEFIT PLAN OF INFOSYS IN THEIR 13 CAPACITY AS SUCH OR OTHERWISE) ARISING OUT OF, RELATING TO, 14 OR RESULTING FROM MY EMPLOYMENT WITH INFOSYS OR THE 15 TERMINATION OF MY EMPLOYMENT WITH INFOSYS, INCLUDING ANY 16 BREACH OF THIS AGREEMENT, SHALL BE SUBJECT TO BINDING
17 ARBITRATION UNDER THE ARBITRATION RULES SET FORTH IN 18 CALIFORNIA CODE OF CIVIL PROCEDURE SECTION 1280 THROUGH 19 1294.2, INCLUDING SECTION 1283.05 (THE "RULES") AND PURSUANT TO 20 CALIFORNIA LAW. DISPUTES WHICH I AGREE TO ARBITRATE, AND 21 THEREBY AGREE TO WAIVE ANY RIGHT TO A TRIAL BY JURY, INCLUDE
22 ANY STATUTORY CLAIMS UNDER TITLE VII OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS ACT
23 OF 1964, THE AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT OF 1990, THE AGE
24 DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT OF 1967, THE OLDER WORKERS
25 BENEFIT PROTECTION ACT, THE CALIFORNIA FAIR EMPLOYMENT AND 26 HOUSING ACT, THE CALIFORNIA LABOR CODE, CLAIMS OF 27 HARASSMENT, DISCRIMINATION, OR WRONGFUL TERMINATION AND 28 ANY STATUTORY CLAIMS. I FURTHER UNDERSTAND THAT THIS AGREEMENT TO ARBITRATE ALSO APPLIES TO ANY DISPUTES THAT INFOSYS MAY HAVE WITH ME.

19 Id. (emphasis in original).

21 LEGAL STANDARD

22 The Federal Arbitration Act ("FAA"), 9 U.S.C. §§ 1-16, requires federal courts to enforce 23 arbitration agreements and to stay any litigation that contravenes such agreements. Arbitration is a 24 matter of contract, and the court cannot require a party to arbitrate a dispute unless the party has 25 agreed to do so. United Steelworkers of Am. v. Warrior & Gulf Navigation Co., 363 U.S. 574, 582
26 (1960). Accordingly, the court's role under the FAA is limited to (1) determining whether a valid

1 agreement to arbitrate exists and, if it does, (2) deciding whether the agreement encompasses the 2 dispute at issue. 9 U.S.C. § 4; Simula, Inc. v. Autoliv, Inc., 175 F.3d 716, 719-20 (9th Cir. 1999).

3 Under California law, which pursuant to the terms of the Gonsalves' employment contract
4 governs this dispute, see At-Will Form Contract ¶ 12(a), a party can, however, waive its otherwise
5 enforceable right to arbitrate a dispute. See St. Agnes Med. Ctr. v. PacifiCare of Cal., 31 Cal.4th
6 1187, 1195 (2003) (citations omitted). Given federal and state policies in favor of arbitration,
7 waiver of the right to arbitrate is disfavored; id.; therefore, "any party arguing waiver of arbitration
8 bears a heavy burden of proof," id.. The California Supreme Court has held that "no single test 9 delineates the nature of conduct that will constitute a waiver of arbitration." Id. (citations omitted).
10 That said, the court has provided some guidance as to what sort of conduct might waive the right to 11 arbitrate: "waiver does not occur by mere participation in litigation; there must be judicial litigation 12 of the merits of arbitrable issues, although waiver could occur prior to a judgment on the merits if 13 prejudice could be demonstrated." Id. at 1203 (quoting Christensen v. Dewor Developments, 33 Cal.
14 3d 778, 782 (1983)) (internal quotation marks omitted). Further, the court identified six factors
15 relevant to a court's determination of waiver:

- 16 (1) whether the party's actions are inconsistent with the right to arbitrate;
- 17 (2) whether the litigation machinery has been substantially invoked and the parties 18 were well into preparation of a lawsuit before the party notified the opposing party of an intent to arbitrate;
- 19 (3) whether a party either requested arbitration enforcement close to the trial date or 20 delayed for a long period before seeking a stay;
- 21 a (4) whether a defendant seeking arbitration filed a counterclaim without asking for 22 stay of the proceedings;
- 23 (5) whether important intervening steps [e.g., taking advantage of judicial discovery procedures not available in arbitration] had taken place; and
- 24 (6) whether the delay affected, misled, or prejudiced the opposing party.

25 Id. at 1196 (quoting Sobremonte v. Superior Court, 61 Cal. App. 4th 980, 992 (1998)) (citations and 26 internal quotation marks omitted).

1 DISCUSSION

2 Plaintiff argues that defendant “substantially invoked” the “litigation machinery” by filing
3 its second motion to dismiss, which led to the dismissal of several of plaintiff’s claims with 4 prejudice. See id. (quoting Sobremonte, 61 Cal. App. 4th at 992). Plaintiff asserts that such an 5 action constitutes “judicial litigation of the merits of arbitrable issues,” requiring the court to find 6 that defendant has waived its right to arbitrate and deny the motion to compel arbitration.

7 In the instant case, after plaintiff filed his second amended complaint, defendant filed a 8 motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6). Pursuant to that motion, the court dismissed, with prejudice, 9 plaintiff’s FEHA and wrongful termination claims for failure to state a claim upon which relief could 10 be granted. Order on Second Mot. to Dismiss and Transfer. The court’s dismissal of these claims 11 with prejudice under Rule 12(b)(6) constitutes “judicial litigation of the merits.” See Federated 12 Dept. Stores, Inc. v. Moitie, 452 U.S. 394, 399 n.3 (1981) (“The dismissal for failure to state a claim 13 under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) is a ‘judgment on the merits.’ ”) (citing Angel v.
14 Bullington, 330 U.S. 183, 190 (1947); Bell v. Hood, 327 U.S. 678 (1946)); see also Goddard v.
15 Security Title Ins. & Guarantee Co. 92 P.2d 804 (1939) (stating that a judgment sustaining a general 16 demurrer may be deemed a judgment on the merits). Moreover, plaintiff’s FEHA and wrongful 17 termination claims are clearly “arbitrable issues”—the arbitration agreement specifically mandates
18 that wrongful termination claims and claims under the Fair Employment and Housing Act be 19 arbitrated. See At-Will Form Contract at 5. Therefore, in filing a motion to dismiss under Rule 20 12(b)(6) and securing a dismissal of plaintiff’s FEHA and wrongful termination claims with 21 prejudice, defendant has engaged in “judicial litigation of the merits of arbitrable issues” and has 22 waived its right to arbitration.²

23 Infosys contends that a motion to dismiss resulting in the dismissal of some of plaintiffs 24 claims with prejudice is not “judicial litigation of the merits” and does not waive its right to 25 arbitration. However, the cases defendant cites in support of this proposition are unpersuasive.
26 Infosys first cites to Groom v. Health Net, 82 Cal. App. 4th 1189, 1198 (2000), where the court 27 found that the defendant’s disposing on demurrer of two arbitrable causes of action was not the 28

1 equivalent of “litigation of the merits.” The Groom court cites to McConnell v. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc., 105 Cal. App. 3d 946 (1980), for the proposition that the dismissal of 2 claims on demurrer with prejudice does not constitute “litigation of the merits.” Id. The McConnell
 3 court, however, reached no such conclusion. In McConnell, the court merely stated:

5 We want to emphasize that we are not holding that the filings of a demurrer or some 6 other motion, in addition to the complaint or answer, is all that is required to find
 7 waiver in similar situations. The trial court must still view the litigation as a whole
 8 and determine if the parties’ conduct is inconsistent with a desire to arbitrate.

10 See id. at 952 n.2 (emphasis added). If anything, McConnell should be read to support plaintiff’s 11 arguments in favor of waiver. The McConnell court strongly condemned permitting a party to 12 litigate “various issues through demurrers, motions for summary judgment, motions for certification
 13 of class, or opposition thereto, etc., yet just before trial demand arbitration.” Id. at 951. ” It
 14 analogized such conduct to “testing the water before taking the swim. If it’s not to your liking you 15 go elsewhere.” Id. Unlike in McConnell, the issue before the court in Groom was not whether a 16 party’s filings of a demurrer resulted in an automatic waiver of arbitration rights, but whether the 17 defendant’s filing of the demurrer, coupled with the court’s subsequent dismissal of two arbitrable
 18 claims, constituted “judicial litigation of the merits. Because McConnell did not speak to the factual 19 circumstances at issue in Groom, Groom’s reliance on McConnell is misplaced. Therefore, although 20 the procedural history of the instant case closely mirrors that which occurred in Groom, Groom’s 21 conclusion that the defendant had not waived its right to arbitrate neither binds nor persuades this 22 court to reach the same result.

24 Global Security & Communications, Inc. v. AT&T, No. 98-3606, 1999 WL 513873 (9th Cir.
 25 July 16, 1999), another case cited by Infosys, is likewise unpersuasive. There, the defendant filed a 26 motion to compel arbitration before the court issued an order on a previously-filed motion to 27 dismiss. Id. at *1. Consequently, in compelling the parties to arbitrate their dispute, the court found 28 only that the filing of pre-trial motions did not constitute waiver and expressed no opinion as to whether a court’s dismissal of a party’s claims with prejudice would qualify as “judicial litigation of the merits.” Id. at *2. The same is true of Roman v. Superior Court, 172 Cal. App. 4th 1462 (2009).
 There, the defendant filed its motion to compel arbitration before the court had an opportunity to

United States District Court

For the Northern District of California

1 consider the previously-filed demurters and related to discovery issues. Id. at 1467. In sum, none of 2 the cases cited by Infosys persuade the court that a court order issued pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6)
3 dismissing a claim with prejudice is anything other than “judicial litigation of the merits of arbitrable 4 issues.”

5 Defendant also contends that because the parties have not yet started discovery, Infosys’
6 participation in the litigation has not resulted in any strategic advantages to Infosys or any prejudice
7 to plaintiff. However, as plaintiff has shown that Infosys engaged in “judicial litigation of the merits
8 of arbitrable issues,” plaintiff need not demonstrate any additional prejudice.³ The very order issued 9 by this court on Infosys’ second motion to dismiss held that a number of Gonsalves’ claims were 10 dismissed with prejudice. No further showing of prejudice is necessary. Other evidence of 11 prejudice, related to delay or discovery, is necessary where a plaintiff alleges that waiver occurred 12 prior to a judgment on the merits. See St. Agnes, 31 Cal. 4th at 1203 (“waiver does not occur by 13 mere participation in litigation; there must be ‘judicial litigation of the merits of arbitrable issues, 14 although waiver could occur prior to a judgment on the merits if prejudice could be demonstrated’
15 (quoting Christensen, 33 Cal.3d at 782) (internal quotation marks omitted) (emphasis added).

16 The court therefore holds that Infosys—by waiting to file its motion to compel arbitration 17 until after it filed two separate motions to dismiss for failure to state a claim which ultimately 18 resulted in dismissal, with prejudice, of Gonsalves’ FEHA and wrongful termination
19 claims⁴—waived its right to enforce the arbitration clause in Gonsalves’ employment agreement.⁵

21 CONCLUSION

22 For the foregoing reasons, defendant Infosys’ motion to compel arbitration is DENIED.

23 IT IS SO ORDERED.

ENDNOTES

1. As plaintiffs' allegations have been thoroughly described in the court's previous orders, the court
2. does not repeat these allegations here, but only provides the facts relevant to the issue before the court.
3.

2. Plaintiff notes several other instances where Infosys has participated in this litigation, arguing
4. that such participation amounts to a substantial invocation of the litigation machinery. Plaintiff makes
5. specific mention of defendant's participation in oral argument, a first motion to dismiss, and motions
6. for remand and transfer. As stated above, "waiver does not occur by mere participation in litigation;
7. there must be judicial litigation of the merits of arbitrable issues, although waiver could occur prior to
8. a judgment on the merits if prejudice could be demonstrated." St. Agnes, 31 Cal. 4th at 1203 (quoting
9. Christensen, 33 Cal. 3d at 782) (internal quotation marks omitted). Defendant's participation in oral
10. argument and its motions for remand and transfer do not constitute "judicial litigation of the merits."
11. Indeed, as to defendant's motions to change the judicial forum, the California Supreme Court has held
12. that "[a] petitioning party does not waive its arbitration rights merely by seeking to change judicial
13. venue of an action prior to requesting arbitration. . . . [A] party is not required to litigate the issue of
14. arbitration in an improper or inconvenient venue." Id. at 1205 (citations omitted). Likewise, while the
15. court expresses disapproval of defendant's statement before the court that it "would never try to compel
16. arbitration in California," Docket No. 81 (Opposition) (citing Hearing Tr., December 7, 2009, p.20),
17. plaintiff has not shown how such representations caused him prejudice. The court expresses no opinion
18. as to whether, by failing to file its motion to arbitrate prior to the court's ruling on its first motion to dismiss, Infosys would have waived its right to arbitrate.

3. While the court need not discuss any other prejudice suffered by Gonsalves, it notes that
14. defendant filed its motion to compel arbitration the day after the court issued an order denying its
15. motion to dismiss plaintiffs claim for breach of contract and its motion to transfer venue. The court will
16. not permit defendant to use a motion to compel arbitration as a means of "forum shopping." See
17. Conwest Res. v. Playtime Novelties, No. 06-5304, 2007 WL 1288349, at *5-6 (N.D. Cal. May 1, 2007)
18. (Armstrong, J.) (stating that use of arbitration as a method of forum shopping would result in prejudice).
19. "The courtroom may not be used as a convenient vestibule to the arbitration hall so as to allow a party
20. to create his own unique structure combining litigation and arbitration." Christensen, 33 Cal. 3d at 784
21. (quoting De Sapiro v. Kohlmeyer, 321 B.E.2d 770, 773 (N.Y. 1974)). Nor will the court allow Infosys
22. to seek a redetermination from an arbitrator of issues on which Infosys failed to prevail before this court
23. (such as seeking to dismiss Gonsalves' breach of contract claims for failure to state a claim). See
24. McConnell, 105 Cal. App. 3d at 951.

4. Indeed, the court warned defendant at the April 5, 2010 Motion Hearing that it may have waived
20. its arbitration rights. Docket No. 62 (Hearing Transcript) at 18:2-3.

5. In light of the court's finding that Infosys has waived its right to arbitrate, it does not reach the
21. issue of whether the arbitration agreement is valid or enforceable and expresses no opinion on this
22. matter.
